

Copyright – What is it?

Copyright subsists in literary, dramatic, musical and artistic works. The Copyright Act allows only the owner of a work full copyright, or the exclusive right to reproduce all or a substantial part of a work. Individuals are prohibited from making copies of all or substantial parts of copyright works without the consent of the owner of copyright. Any unauthorized copying of such works may infringe copyright.

Disclaimer:

St. Mary's University College (StMU) and the StMU Library are not responsible for copyright infringement by an individual using a photocopy machine or scanner installed on the StMU campus.

Exceptions:

It is not an infringement of copyright to exercise fair dealing with respect to a copyright work for the purpose of research or private study. Under fair dealing individuals are entitled to copy the following for the purposes of research or private study.

1. Subject to paragraph 3 below, up to 10% of a Published Work, other than a textbook produced primarily for the post secondary education market, or the following, whichever is greater:
  - (a) an entire chapter from a book provided that it does not exceed 20% of the book;
  - (b) an entire article from a periodical publication;
  - (c) an entire short story, play, poem or essay from a book or periodical publication;
  - (d) an entire entry from a reference book, such as an annotated bibliography, dictionary, or encyclopedia;
  - (e) an entire reproduction of an artistic work from a book or periodical publication; and
  - (f) a single musical score from a book or periodical publication.
2. Subject to paragraph 3 below, up to 5% of a textbook produced primarily for the post secondary education market, or the following, whichever is greater:
  - (a) an entire chapter from a textbook provided that it does not exceed 10% of the textbook;
  - (b) an entire short story, play, poem or essay from the textbook provided that it does not exceed 10% of the textbook; and
  - (c) an entire reproduction of an artistic work or a single musical score from the textbook provided that it does not exceed 10% of the textbook.
3. No copies may be made of the following:
  - (a) any of the works referred to in sections 1(b) to 3(f) of these guidelines where the publication containing the work does not contain other works. For example, no copy may be made of a play from a publication containing the play but no other work;
  - (b) unpublished works;
  - (c) proprietary workbooks, work cards, assignment sheets, tests and examination papers;
  - (d) instruction manuals;
  - (e) newsletters with restricted circulation intended to be restricted to a fee paying clientele; or
  - (f) business cases which are made available for purchase.